

STEAMER ALEXANDER HAMILTON

The Great sidewheel steamer "Alexander Hamilton," especially built for the Hudson River Day Line excursions, is shown here leaving Bear Mountain for the return to Pier 81, at West 41st St., New York City. This fine ship also lands at West Point, and in season makes a cruise loop near Poughkeepsie (no landing).

Boston visitors may enjoy former Day Liner "S.S. Peter Stuyvesant", owned and operated by Anthony Athanas, as part of Anthony's Pier 4 Restaurant, 140 Northern Avenue, Boston, reached by the Atlantic St. exit from the Boston Expressway in downtown Boston. Open daily noon to midnight the ship offers a cocktail lounge, party dinners, a distinctive Peter Stuyvesant Imports gift shop, convenient free parking, a chance to relax with a fine view of Boston harbor. "History of the Day Line" book by Donald Ringwald is sold in the Import shop, as one of many marine items.
